JUST THINKING

Number 2

At the National Prayer Breakfast Obama said – he says many things but doesn't know what he says – "I believe in God's command to 'love thy neighbor as thyself.' I know the version of that Golden Rule is found in every major religion and every set of beliefs—from Hinduism to Islam to Judaism to the writings of Plato. And I think to myself, if I'm willing to give something up as somebody who's been extraordinarily blessed, and give up some of the tax breaks that I enjoy, I actually think that's going to make economic sense. But for me as a Christian, it also coincides with Jesus's teaching that 'for unto whom much is given, much shall be required.' But for me as a Christian, it also coincides with Jesus's teaching that 'for unto whom much is given, much shall be required.'"

JT: Obama has taken a saying and a parable told by Jesus out of context and is using both as reasoning for big government getting more involved in people's lives and taxing them more. Obama goes just as far as Mohammed does by saying that Allah told him everything. Obama claims he is a Christian. Well, I'm the Emperor of China!

The Golden Rule is in all major religions of the world. However, Islam cannot be a religion because it is an ideology disguised in religious tones. Furthermore, Obama classifies it as a belief only! In Islam, the Golden Rule applies only to Muslims. It is not all encompassing.

Let's look at the Golden Rule, Love thy neighbor as thyself. We read in the Koran (48:29) that Muslims must be "ruthless to the unbelievers but merciful to one another" and in the Koran (98:6) that the unbelievers are the "worst of created beings." Therefore, one may exercise the Golden Rule in relation to a fellow Muslim, but according to the laws of Islam, the same behavior is not to be extended to unbelievers. Perhaps this is the reason why Obama wants to tax, to tax, to tax. He has placed Americans in a position of being subservient to his Muslim principles. Since Americans overall are not Muslim, tax them, tax, them, tax them. That is part of his being ruthless to the unbelievers because they are the worst of human beings. I think that the worst of human beings is Obama himself!

Now let's examine for unto whom much is given, much shall be required. (Luke 12:48). My opinion is that this portion of the Parable of the Faithful Servant (or Parable of the Door Keeper) places emphasis on the fact that privilege brings with it responsibility. Responsibility necessitates accountability. This has nothing to do with requiring that some people in society must pay more taxes to support those who are presently on the dole and those who will be on the dole in the future. What it does say is that Obama has the privilege of being ~~president~~. This privilege brings with it responsibility. This responsibility, which he has not yet shown, for what he does show is nothing more than continuous irresponsibility, involves accountability. Therefore, we must hold him accountable in November 2012 for his irresponsibility, which consists of his incompetence and his being a traitor.

JT: I have read Little Green Footballs, but I do not think that the footballs are on the side of truth. The approach is too leftist (Is there such a situation? Leftist is too leftist!) and indeed, too pro-Islam (Pro-Islam is too pro-Islam!) for me! I do not understand how anyone can be pro-Islam! I am a staunch conservative, just as my sign-off on my essays says: Patriotic, Steadfast, and True.

The homepage for the honor killings is <http://www.memini.co/>. Honor Killings!!! What an insult to humanity, to intelligence and to the soul, indeed to God! However, since Islam has none of these it does not surprise me! Notice that Allah (Allah is not God!) approves because Mohammed says so.

We are all made in God's likeness, except Muslims do not want to believe that either. Allah is the term that Mohammed came up with to be used collectively for the 350-plus moon deities that were worshipped during his day. That's where the moon crescent comes from. (There is an essay forthcoming!) Perhaps, those who believe as Mohammed commands them to believe are made in the likeness of these deities.

Being made in God's likeness is the philosophical, moral, and ethical foundation for human rights. Islam wants nothing of human rights either. The leftists, progressives, libtards, whatever you call them, will wake up one day and they will all be wearing Mohammed's garb and facing Mecca five times a day. They can get a quick start by rounding themselves up and shipping themselves off to Mecca, and Iran, and Afghanistan, and Pakistan.

Not one patriotic soldier's life is worth that evil dogma, unless that life is given for the protection of the United States of America and placed on the life-death line of rotting out the dogmatic cancer!

Anyone or any dogma that propagandizes the Islam dogma crap and those who support it are violating the right of freedom of expression because they are using that constitutionally guaranteed right to argue for the killing and extermination of moral, ethical human beings! Freedom of expression is an ethical, moral right based in the laws of nature and in legal form in the Judeo-Christian heritage. All other attempts to make freedom of expression become otherwise are immoral. One cannot yell FIRE in a crowded theater and say that it is freedom of speech. Likewise, no dogma on earth can yell for the KILLING of those who believe other than they, or yell for a new holocaust against the Jews and the extinction of Israel and claim that it is freedom of speech.

JT: This is an example of political incorrectness with truth in Europe (France). Such truthfulness seldom appears. The French Minister of the Interior (Not Minister of the Interior in the USA. It is more like Minister of Home Affairs (Homeland Security – of which the USA has none – [Is Butch Napolitano really doing such a job? What does s/he do?]) was verbally tarred and feathered by the French Greens and the French Socialists. Why? For saying the truth!

German politicians: Sharia law should be introduced in Germany - 'good for integration'

German politicians once again make room for totalitarian barbarism:

Most politicians in Germany have gotten the message: The quickest way to spark a career-damaging controversy is to make a facile comment about Nazis or the Holocaust. Media critics and political opponents are quick to pounce.

But that isn't the only way to attract unwanted attention, as Jochen Hartloff, the interior minister of the German state of Rhineland-Palatinate, found out this week. In an interview with the Berlin tabloid BZ, Hartloff said that Sharia law, in a "modern form," would be acceptable in Germany. In comments published on Friday in the center-left daily Süddeutsche Zeitung, he added that using the Islamic moral code "is certainly conceivable when it comes to questions pertaining to civil law."

Hartloff, a politician from the center-left Social Democrats, made clear that he was referring specifically to family law issues such as divorce settlements and alimony, but also certain instances of contract law in which devout Muslims seek to avoid paying interest. Applying Sharia rules, he said, could help avoid hostility in such cases.

He was seconded by Stephan Mayer, a parliamentarian for the Christian Social Union, the Bavarian sister party to Chancellor Angela Merkel's Christian Democrats. Mayer, a legal expert, demanded Hartloff's resignation. "It is inconceivable that a justice minister fosters such ideas," he told Bild. "There is no room in Germany for Islamic law. The Sharia is barbarous and inhuman in all its forms." ...

Michael Frieser, expert on integration issues for conservatives in German parliament, said that Muslim justices of the peace could perhaps be used to prepare the groundwork for a civil law judgement. He told the Süddeutsche Zeitung that he has nothing against immigrants seeking judgments according to the legal systems they are used to. "That can ultimately serve the cause of integration," he said.

JT: I'm thinking this. Would you buy a used car from this phiz? (A good old English colloquialism!) Would you buy anything from this mug? Jochen Hartloff doesn't know what thinking is. I know German politics and German history and the politics and the history of the Rhineland Palatinate like the palm of my hand. Hartloff is the type of person who would sell his soul to keep his political position, no matter how high or how low the position is. It is quite interesting to note that more idiocy comes out of his mouth than comes out of many Social Democrats, although they often try to top each other. The only politicians in Germany that understand the threat of Islam are some who belong to the Christian Democratic Union, the major political party in Bavaria. They know exactly that Islam is contrary to everything that is Christian. Is Hartloff Christian? I don't know, but doubt it very much. Like Islam, there is no Golden Rule in his politics. Had he been alive during the Third Reich, he would have aimed at being a big shot in the Nazi Party. If Hartloff thinks that applying Sharia law in only some areas will be enough, then he does not realize that once the Sharia law gets a foothold, Muslims will demand that the German Constitution come under Sharia law in all aspects. Hartloff ist ein blöder Kerl!; ein Beispiel von anti-Intelligenz. Trottel are more intelligent than he is! Typical Social Democrat. Blah! Blah! Blah! And vote for me! Sounds like Obama. The sentence part "He was seconded by Stephen Mayor", should read "He was thoroughly criticized ..." Stephen Mayor does not support Hartloff.

"The Obama administration has been accused of telling Catholic military chaplains what they can and cannot say from their pulpits after the Army ordered Catholic chaplains not to read a letter to parishioners from their archbishop."

JT: I think it's time for a Republican military coup d'état! Such an action is covered by the Declaration of Independence. We need to make ourselves free from an oppressive regime again.

Banda Aceh. Ulema in Aceh have warned Muslims, the younger generation in particular, that observing Valentine's Day is not allowed in Islam and against Shariah law that is in force in all of Aceh province.

"It is haram for Muslims to observe Valentine's Day because it does not accord with Islamic Shariah" Tgk Feisal, general secretary of the Aceh Ulema Association (HUDA), said on Monday.

JT: Here's the proof that Islam is evil. It is out to kill everything that has to do with love!

M.I.A.'s homage to Islam can be watched here.

JT: If you are the type of viewer who likes to hear people who can't sing, who likes to watch people who have putrid pudding in their brains that goozes out homage to Islam, then you're welcome to her. By the way, I think I know where she got the stinky finger. Doesn't Barack have one, or two as well? Perhaps more? Everything about him stinks!

"On the February 6 Today program, the remainder of Matt Lauer's interview with Obama is broadcast. Lauer asks for Obama's reaction to the fact that many of his supporters are disappointed by his performance. Obama responds, 'What's frustrated people is is [sic] that I've not been able ta [sic] force Congress to implement every aspect of what I, uh, said in 2008. Well, you know, it turns that, uh, our Founders designed a system that makes it more difficult to bring about change than I would like sometimes. But what we have been able to do is move in the right direction.'"

JT: The only founder I know that botched up and provided for the present political mess in America is Barack Hussein Obama, Sr., or Malcolm X, or Frank Marshall Davis, and Stanley Ann Dunham, or all four?
