JUST THINKING

Number 5

At a House hearing to discuss the legality of Obama's "free birth control and abortion pill" mandate, Committee chairman Darrell Issa (R-CA) states that the hearing is about "basic question of religious freedom, and whether or not protection will be afforded to religious institutions who wish to follow their conscience in refusing to pay for products they find morally objectionable. ...A government policy that encroaches on the conscientious objections of religious groups concerns all Americans who value the protections of the First Amendment." Obama's decree is a "solution" to a problem that does not exist.

JT: Darrell Issa is correct in his statement. ... However, what is Mr. Issa going to do about it? During the last four years he has done nothing to expose and punish Obama's regime for breaking the laws of the Constitution. What is the use of having a Congressman with investigative and subpoena power if they are never put to use to convict criminals?

Congresswoman Michele Bachmann (R-MN) writes on Facebook, "The suspect today who approached the U.S. Capitol planning to detonate a bomb was using jihad-influenced methods of terrorism. The White House refers to this as 'homegrown violent extremist.' How is it homegrown if this was not an American citizen? It also appears that this individual was living in the U.S. illegally for years. I intend to find out how he was allowed to live here."

Pamela Geller writes, "And what is Obama's response? Disarm the FBI, disarm the military, ban 'jihad' from the lexicon. Obama invites the universal caliphate organization, the OIC, to Washington, DC behind closed doors to talk about imposing bans on free speech in submission to the blasphemy laws under the sharia. In the past year alone, at least 20 people have been arrested in the United States on terrorism-related charges, according to the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence. But the NY Times says there is no jihad threat. ...This jihadist [Amine El Khalifi] has been living in the US for twelve years, but FOX and the rest of the US media refers to this devout Muslim as Moroccan (as if Morocco had anything to do with this act of war). The press does not dare say 'Muslim,' even though these Muslim soldiers scream 'allahu akbar' and go jihad in the cause of Islam. No, in the UK, the enemedia and political quislings use the word 'Asian' for Muslim. In France, they use 'youth.' In Denmark, Sweden and Germany, they use 'immigrant' for Muslim (even if the jihadists are second or third generation). In many European countries, 'immigrant youth.' In the US, the media use country of origin or nationality in place of Muslim. In Israel, they use 'Arab.' Lipstick on a savage. It is jihad in the cause of Islam. Period." LongWarJournal.org points out that Amine El Khalifi set out to bomb the Capitol "after first praying at the Dar al-Hirjah mosque in Northern Virginia"—

JT: It is important for Barack Hussein Obama and his regime to be politically correct in their remarks and decisions. Barack Hussein and his regime surely have only goodness in their hearts. Barack Hussein Obama and his regime would definitely not put the United States of America in a situation that it might become the target of a foreign terrorist, particularly when there are enough homegrown terrorists in the United States who are called patriots and who are a threat to America. Barack Hussein Obama and his regime are so thoughtful.

In an agreement with Michelle Obama Mars Candy agrees to phase out its largest candy bars.

JT: I'm so glad that there is a Michelle Obama who is looking out for the dietary needs of children and adults. She is such a person to emulate! No one can down XXXL hamburgers like Michelle! No one can eat an XXXL portion of French-fries like Michelle! No one can eat a three-pound steak like Michelle! No one can dish out meal portions to US troops like Michelle! No one can tell the American military what to eat like Michelle! No one can do the grubbing in a biological White House Garden like Michelle! Isn't that supportive of her person in that she, of course, does all of the work? She doesn't want any gardener other than herself doing the work. (Was that a racist comment?) No one can have a possible secret lover and not have it disclosed like Michelle! Coming full circle to Mars Candy, methinks that Michelle stored up enough large Mars Candy bars in the past to fill out her body parameters to the point of explosion!

The Guardian reports, “Officials in key parts of the Obama administration are increasingly convinced that sanctions will not deter Tehran from pursuing its nuclear programme, and believe that the US will be left with no option but to launch an attack on Iran or watch Israel do so. [Obama] has made clear in public, and in private to Israel, that he is determined to give sufficient time for recent measures, such as the financial blockade and the looming European oil embargo, to bite deeper into Iran’s already battered economy before retreating from its principal strategy to pressure Tehran. But there is a strong current of opinion within the administration—including in the Pentagon and the state department—that believes sanctions are doomed to fail, and that their principal use now is in delaying Israeli military action, as well as reassuring Europe that an attack will only come after other means have been tested.” One official says, “Sanctions are all we’ve got to throw at the problem. If they fail then it’s hard to see how we don’t move to the ‘in extremis’ option.” The Guardian notes, “Earlier this month, the US defence secretary, Leon Panetta, told the Washington Post that he thought the window for an Israeli attack on Iran is between April and June. But other official analysts working on Iran have identified what one described as a ‘sweet spot,’ where the mix of diplomacy, political timetables and practical issues come together to suggest that if Israel launches a unilateral assault it is more likely in September or October, although they describe that as a ‘best guess.’”

JT: Obama will not support anything other than very weak sanctions. At the same time, he will probably advise Teheran on how to elude the sanctions. The time was ripe to topple the mullahs in Iran in 2009. But Barack Hussein Obama is such a peace-loving man that he would never threaten a foreign country. He is expecting that Iran in the not-too-far-future will have the atomic bomb and that he will be invited to Teheran when it conducts its first atom bomb attack on Israel. At that time, he can bow to Mahmoud Ahmadinejad and the Moon-god mullahs in Iran and thank them for their international peacekeeping politics.

ThePostEmail.com reports, “[T]he U.S. Supreme Court will be conferencing today to decide whether or not to hear the case of Purpura v. Sebelius, which challenges the constitutionality of the health care bill and Obama’s eligibility to hold office. Plaintiffs Nicholas Purpura and Donald R. Laster, Jr. call their challenge the ‘We the People’ brief. Purpura stated that his case is ‘the best one’ to challenge the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act passed in March 2010 by the 111th Congress and signed by Obama. He had submitted a Request for Reargument to the Supreme Court’s decision not to hear the case on January 17, 2012. Purpura has stated that 'the reason they don't want to take the case and why they're most frightened is Count 6,' which claims that if Obama is not eligible to serve as President [because he is not a natural born citizen], the bill is null and void."

JT: I don't think the Supreme Court has stranding!

Egyptian authorities have announced a February 26 trial date for 43 employees, including 16 or 19 Americans, of non-governmental organizations (NGOs) accused of using foreign funds to provoke unrest. According to Fox News, "At least three of the seven indicted Americans who still live in Egypt are currently taking refuge at the US Embassy as guests of the American ambassador, including Sam LaHood, the son of US Secretary of Transportation Ray LaHood."

JT: It is really a sorry situation for the 43 employees including 16 or 19 Americans. What is sorry about it is that Barack Hussein Obama and his regime are doing nothing to get them freed! Barack Hussein Obama in all of his goodness should give the Egyptian military an ultimatum they can't refuse: perhaps giving Egypt military support in an Egyptian invasion of Israel. He has certainly thought of this approach. He is such a foreign policy genius! Hey, we could exchange Ray LaHood for hostages!

Candy Crowley host of the television program State of the Union interviews Howard Schultz, the CEO of Starbucks. Crowley notes the rising stock market, the slightly lower unemployment rate, and rising levels of consumer confidence in an effort to get Schultz to agree that Obama's policies are working. Schultz responds, "[Y]ou cannot use the stock market as a proxy for the economy, and consumer confidence, although it is a good metric, also [it] should not be the primary issue. I really believe that the economy, perhaps on the margin, has been improved, but at the same time you have the majority of states in America [that] are facing insolvency, cutting social services and the safety net of the people who need it most, and the unemployment level is at a level that we should not be celebrating the fact that we're down from 9.1 to 8.3 [percent]. We still have a disastrous situation in America where people feel as if they have no hope and no opportunity for jobs, and as a result of that their self-esteem—it's almost a fracturing of the morality of America when we're celebrating these kinds of statistics, when we still have so many people in the country who can't find a job."

JT: Howard Schultz is correct. But the answer is so damn politically correct it does not tell the truth behind the employment situation. Schultz forgot to say it is all Obama's fault. That Obama has no sense of what makes an economy productive. That Obama has no sense of capitalism. That Obama has no sense of what is good for the USA. Schultz should have said that Obama has sense for only what is bad for the USA!

On February 17 the White House released a schedule of Vice President Joe Biden's upcoming activities. It stated, "On Thursday, the Vice President will travel to Boston, Massachusetts, Manchester, New Hampshire and Providence, Road Island to attend campaign events."

JT: It should be written "travel to: Boston, Massachusetts; Manchester, New Hampshire; and Providence, Road Island to attend campaign events." Of course, there are roads in Rhode Island! Evidently, this is another state of the union! That's cool! Obama wants to be cool! That's cool! Obama likes to sing! That's cool!!! Obama can't sing! That's the coolest! Democrats and progressives have reached one of their goals: America has been dumbed down! That's cool! Waite ... ah minit. Tha Wait Hose a gut it korrekt. That's cool! Evidently, Michelle and Valerie Jarrett worked on Joe Biden's schedule. They missed the point! Barack Hussein Obama will go down in history – hopefully so deep that he will never see light – as the president who rode the Democratic Party jackass named Island.

Muslims Riot Over Improper Disposal Of Korans

KABUL (BHN) Thousand of Muslims in Afghanistan continue to riot after Afghan laborers found charred copies of the Koran while collecting rubbish at Bagram Airbase.

In an effort to prevent this type of situation from happening again, non-Muslims are asked to observe the following Islamic rules for proper Koran disposal:

- Never burn the Koran on the ground - this is considered an insult to the Islamic faith. Always burn the Koran on a plate or in a receptacle.
- Always burn the Koran by itself or with the Hadith - never with other rubbish.
- When disposing of the Koran in a toilet be careful not to defecate on the sacred book as it is forbidden. Urinating on the Koran is acceptable, but only if you have not been drinking alcohol.

- When using a discarded Koran as an absorbent in a cat box, the above rules don't apply, as the sacred text has no meaning for cats, and they have little control over where they poop.
- Never cook hot dogs over a burning Koran unless they are 100% beef.
- When using discarded pages from the Koran as Kleenex, do not allow snot to touch the name Mohammad, as it is sacred.
- If using a discarded Koran for target practice, make sure the bullets have not been in contact with pork products or a Jew.

My comments: This information was badly needed - I realize now I've been doing it wrong!

JT: So what?!? Burning the Koran is no great or important loss. What was burned was the evil dogma of the Moon-god Allah and his lunatic Mohammed. The above stated rules that you should keep in mind when burning the Koran are excellent guidelines. I would like to provide some more that I have heard from patriotic Americans who speak the politically incorrect truth:

1. Make sure you burn the Koran in a very cold Alaskan winter and that you have enough on stock to heat the cabin through the winter. You can get free Korans from the King of Saudi Arabia as well as from some Islamic internet sites.
2. Make sure you burn it in a stove to give enough heat to fry pork chops.
3. Burn an image of Mohammed with it.
4. Burn it during Ramadan when the crescent Moon-god shows itself.
5. Grease it with pig fat so that it will cackle.
6. Don't burn it alone. Burn it with a copy of Saul Alinsky's Rules for Radicals, Karl Marx's Communist Manifesto, Mao Zedong's Little Red Book, and Barack Hussein Obama's speeches. You will to have to burn all of the speeches, because like Rules for Radicals, the Communist Manifesto, and the Koran, they are evil.
7. Have enough Korans to provide heat for frying a table full of XXXL hamburgers for Michelle.

8. Collect the ashes and air drop them over the Kaaba in Mecca.
9. Go tell it on the mountain, over the hills, and all creation that the world has been set free from the evil dogma.
10. Don't apologize for burning the Koran, because by burning it you will have burned a book that declares war on civilized people and the Judeo-Christian principles of human rights. Burning it will be a good deed for the protection of humanity.

Debbie Schluskel has a number of excellent reasons why there should have been no apologies and why there should be no apologies for burning the Koran. (<http://www.debbieschluskel.com/47516/tired-of-obamas-koran-burning-apologies-yet/>)

Then, there is four-star general John Allen who apologized. I hope he apologized by crawling in Afghanistan dirt as low as possible, for that is the lowest action he could have taken. The general is an outrage. What he did is tantamount to treason. In fact, his support of Barack Hussein Obama IS treason. He should be demoted to nothingness and be sentenced to clean military latrines for the rest of his life. All of Islam now understands that the Moon-god Allah and his lunatic Mohammed have defeated the land of freedom.

Michelle Obama on the situations of families: "If any family in this country is struggling, we can not (sic) be satisfied with our own families' good fortune. ...Who do we want to be? Will we be a country where success is limited to the few at the top? This country is strongest when we are all better off."

JT: Of course, with "when we are all better off" Michelle means Barry, herself, and the two daughters, along with witch-craft-believing Grandmother.

Michelle continues her blabbering: "Every day, I hear about how folks are struggling—the bills they're trying to pay; the businesses they're trying to keep afloat. I hear about how folks are taking that extra shift, they're working that extra job, they're doing whatever they have to—they're saving, they're sacrificing, never spending a dime on themselves because they desperately want something better for their kids. And make no mistake about it, these struggles that I'm talking about, these are not new. For decades now, decades, middle-class folks have been squeezed from all sides. See, the cost of things like gas, groceries, tuition—prices continuing to rise, but people's paychecks just haven't kept up. And when this economic crisis hit, for far too many families the bottom just completely fell out. So, believe me, Barack knows what it means when a family struggles. (JT: Barack has no understanding what struggling families experience. His family never had to struggle and he never had to struggle. He found enough idiots to do the work for him and to pay his bills.) He knows what it means when someone doesn't have a chance to fulfill their [sic] potential. (JT: What potential did he ever have? The exploitation of others and the ability to throw them under the bus when they had served his purpose and he was through with them?) See, those are the experiences that have made him the man ...he is today, and we are blessed to have him. (JT: Barack Hussein Obama is a man? I think he is a rag! We are blessed to have him? We have received a curse!) And that is what I hear in his voice when he returns home after a long day traveling and he tells me about the people that he's met. (JT: The only things I have heard in his voice are lies, lies, and lies!) That's what I see in those quiet moments late at night after the girls have gone to bed, and he's poring over all those briefings and letters—the thousands of letters that he gets. (JT: Barack Hussein Obama probably pours coffee over the briefings. His attention span is no longer than ten minutes!) The letter from the woman dying of cancer whose insurance company won't cover her care. The letter from the father struggling to pay his family's bills. The letter from far too many young people, young people with so much promise but too few opportunities. (JT: Michelle is making up sob-story fairy-tales!) And I hear the passion and determination in his voice. (JT: Determination to play a better round of golf!) He says, 'You will not believe what folks are going through.' He says, 'Michelle, this ain't right. (JT: Excellent English!) We've got to fix this. We have so much more work to do.'" (JT: Then he plays a round of golf!)
