JUST THINKING

Number 7

According to Politico, Democrats are warning wealthy business owners that if they support Republicans with campaign contributions there will be retaliation in the tax code. "...is closely watching support for Rep. Denny Rehberg, a Republican challenging Sen. Jon Tester (D-MT). Baucus supporters fear that if Rehberg ousts Tester, Baucus could be next to face a serious Republican challenge in the state." One Democrat lobbyist reportedly "told a client to take his name off a Rehberg fundraising event because it would be hurtful to his company, according to sources." At Townhall.com Guy Benson writes, "Democrats have a message for American job creators: Nice business you have there. It would be a real shame if you donated to Republicans and something ...unfortunate were to happen to it. ...Dare to contribute to political figures whose beliefs align with your own, and you're liable to magically draw the short end of the stick when Democrats enter their next round of picking winners and losers in the tax code."

JT: Is the Chicago political sewer now in every state?

Obama talks tough to The Atlantic's Jeffrey Goldberg, telling him in an interview, "The Israeli government recognizes that ...I don't bluff. I also don't, as a matter of sound policy, go around advertising exactly what our intentions are [regarding Iran]. Both the Iranian and the Israeli governments recognize that when the United States says it is unacceptable for Iran to have a nuclear weapon, we mean what we say."

JT: It used to be that way. Obama is so truthful. He never bluffed. He has always supported Israel while at the same time calling for its annihilation. He never said what his intentions are in Iran. He just told the Iranian protesters in 2009 that he would not support them in their fight against the dictatorial Mullah regime. Obama even gives Iran drones as Christmas presents. When Obama says that it is "unacceptable for Iran to have a nuclear weapon", he means this year. If they already have one, it is acceptable.

At one of the fundraisers Obama compares himself to Gandhi and Nelson Mandela. He states, "The civil rights movement was hard [sic]. Winning the vote for women was hard [sic]. Making sure that workers had some basic protections was hard [sic]. Around the world, Gandhi, Nelson Mandela, what they did was hard [sic]. It takes time. It takes more than a single term. It takes more than a single president. It takes more than a single individual. What it takes is ordinary citizens who keep believing, who are committed to fighting and pushing and inching this country closer and closer to our highest ideals. And I said in 2008: I am not a perfect man, and I will not be a perfect president. But I promised you. I promised you back then that I would always tell ya what I believed. I would always tell ya where I stood."

JT: Obama comparing himself to Gandhi and Nelson Mandela is an insult to each and an insult to their families. Was Obama throwing them under the bus because he thinks that he is really above them? I wonder if the word difficult is in Obama's vocabulary. Here are some synonyms that the great orator could have used for difficult: laborious, arduous, strenuous, Herculean, demanding, formidable, trying, exhausting burdensome, out of the 78 possibilities that I know. Could it be that Obama is so caught up with Sandra Fluke that he is now a head-hard on buck?

The White House announces that Obama will deliver the May 14 commencement address at Barnard College in New York City. According to The New York Times, "...the White House had called Barnard to offer [Obama] as the commencement speaker.

JT: Be ready for a deluge of lies, lies, and more lies.

Obama addresses the American-Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC) and discusses the Iranian nuclear threat. “Now is not the time for bluster; now is the time to let our increased pressure sink in, and to sustain the broad international coalition that we have built.” Obama makes the absurd claim that he united the world against Iran, and that “efforts to apply pressure on Iran were in tatters” when he took office. “Iran is isolated, its leadership divided and under pressure. And the Arab Spring has only increased these trends, as the hypocrisy of the Iranian regime is exposed, and its ally—the [Bashar] Assad regime [in Syria]—is crumbling. ...Iran’s leaders should have no doubt about the resolve of the United States. Iran’s leaders should understand that I do not have a policy of containment; I have a policy to prevent Iran from obtaining a nuclear weapon. And as I’ve made clear time and again... I will not hesitate to use force when it is necessary to defend the United States and its interests.”

JT: The translation of what Obama said is this: Now is the time to slap their hands and turn our cheek! Iran is an isolated power that is supporting Syria. I welcome this show of Muslim Brotherhood. The United States is a strong opponent of Iran and Syria on paper. I do not have a policy of containment. I have a police of surrender. I will not hesitate to use force to defeat my political opponents, which is in the interests of the United States, and above all, myself!

The Institute for Energy Research responds to Obama’s call for replacing 17 percent of the nation’s transportation fuel with oil created from algae: “According to the authors of a study from the Pacific Northwest National Laboratory, growing that amount of algae would require land roughly the size of South Carolina, our 40th largest state, and 350 gallons of water for each gallon of algal oil. That is about 25 percent of the water we currently use for crop irrigation, and is similar to the amount we use for ethanol production. The question is the availability of that amount of water and where to locate the plants to get it and still have the needed sunlight and access to carbon dioxide. Thus, even if technical barriers to algae production and harvesting are overcome, other barriers still exist.

...Obama's 'all of the above' talk is not centered on increasing oil and gas production on federal lands and getting more oil from Canada, which can only help to relieve prices at the pump. The era of cheap, abundant energy from non-fossil fuels is still many, many years away—and anyone who suggests otherwise is not telling the truth."

JT: Overheard in the White House: Michelle to Barry: "Why all of this fuss over the high price of fuel that our subjects consume? Why can't our subjects just eat algae?" Barry to Michelle: You are so intelligent! I sometimes think that our subjects are very irrational!

Eric Holder says, "I don't remember when I found out about the term Fast and Furious."

JT: Aha! So Mr. Holder, ooops, Holder – the Mr. is reserved for men with a spine – does not know when he found out about the term Fast and Furious. This means that he is concerned with the terminology and not the illegality of the operation. I think that Holder should immediately be held in contempt of Congress, arrested, and sequestered in a rubber-padded jail cell. Isn't that where people are kept who are incapable of understanding simple logic? No one should demand that he resigns. He is incapable of making that decision because he is no longer compos mentis, legally sane. On second thought, compos mentis is the complete Barack Hussein Obama regime. Are there enough rubber-padded cells for all of them? If there are not enough of these repositories in the United States of America, perhaps an agreement could be made with Russia to lease some cells in Siberia for a fee until they all pass away into lunatic land. That would be very much cheaper than what it is costing the United States of America now.

Sandra Fluke! Names are interesting! The following is politically incorrect. Any other way of saying it would be a lie! The philologist in me could not let this opportunity go to waste.

JT: The following video http://www.realclearpolitics.com/video/2012/03/02/sandra_fluke_president_obama_called_me_about_limbaugh.html is an interview by Andrea Mitchell with Sandra Fluke, a law student at Catholic Georgetown University who demands that women students at the university be provided with free contraceptives. Firstly, Andrea Mitchell appears to be a living zombie! Secondly, and more important, is the meaning of Sandra Fluke's name. She doesn't know it, therefore I'm going to tell you the meaning of her name.

Fluke: noun. There are three flukes in the English language.

Fluke 1: the flat end of each arm of an anchor because they resemble the flat fish called fluke.

Fluke 2: a flatfish, sole of foot.

Fluke 3: Drum rolls!!! Trumpets blare!!! TaTaTaTaaa TaTaaaaa! This is Sandra Fluke!!! From approximately 1860 fluke has meant a stroke of luck, with emphasis on stroke. The noun fluke emerged from playing billiards meaning to get good balls. Good balls were happy flukes! There is an older meaning of fluke that goes back to ca 1800-1830. This meaning is an easy dupe. Isn't it wonderful how these definitions apply to Sandra Fluke? She is certainly a dupe, a person easily deceived, probably by her non-education at some liberal high school where pupils by some liberal magic suddenly become students! Moreover, I'm sure that the Georgetown whore, harlot, or prostitute is really craving for the whore pipes at Georgetown. Of course, she adores good balling! It wouldn't surprise me if the whore pipes at Georgetown have formed a Sandra Fluke Gang of male admirers to ball her out! May she have happy flukes for the rest of her life! I hear that Barack Hussein Obama and William Jefferson Cigar-Fetish Clinton are waiting in line! Yesterday they almost got into a fight over who will be first.

Rush Limbaugh issues a statement of apology: "I think it is absolutely absurd that during these very serious political times, we are discussing personal sexual recreational activities before members of Congress. I personally do not agree that American citizens should pay for these social activities. What happened to personal responsibility and accountability? Where do we draw the line? If this is accepted as the norm, what will follow? Will we be debating if taxpayers should pay for new sneakers for all students that are interested in running to keep fit? In my monologue, I posited that it is not our business whatsoever to know what is going on in anyone's bedroom nor do I think it is a topic that should reach a Presidential level. My choice of words was not the best, and in the attempt to be humorous, I created a national stir. I sincerely apologize to Ms. Fluke for the insulting word choices."

JT: This is a clever apology. Limbaugh has apologized for the word choices, which I don't think were insulting. For Sandra Fluke, the shoe fits, so she should wear it. What Rush Limbaugh did not apologize for is that he said the words. Apologizing for choosing the words is one thing. Saying the words is another thing. Here is the real apology: http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Y2yAH-AhDmc&feature=player_embedded Here are some other words that Rush Limbaugh could have said:

adventuress, bar girl, bawd, bim, bird, bitch, broad, caliente, call girl, cat, chippy, cocott, concubine, coquette, courtesan, Cyprian, Delilah, demimondaine, doxy, drab, fallen woman, femme fatale, flirt, floozie, harlot, hetaera, hooker, hussy, hustler, Jezebel, kept woman, lady of the evening, loose woman, madam, minx, mistress, moll, Mrs. Warren, fille de joie, painted woman, pander, paramour, procuress, prostitute, quean, seductress, siren, slut, demirep, streetwalker, strumpet, tart, temptress, tramp, trollop, trull, vamp, wanton, wench, white slave, woman of ill repute, woman of the profession, woman of the streets, working girl.

Obama's position regarding the Catholic Church, its organizations, and the requirement that they provide contraceptives for women.

JT: Couldn't Obama's position fall under the hate law? i.e., he is discriminating against and hating a religion!

Obama knows that a version of the Golden Rule is found in every major religion and every set of beliefs—from Hinduism to Islam to Judaism to the writings of Plato.

JT: The Golden Rule is not found in Islam. There is not one deliberate reference to it in the Koran or in the hadiths, reported sayings and behaviors of Mohammed. Being merciful is not an implementation of the Golden Rule.

Robert Spencer notes that "The Qur'an says that the followers of Muhammad are 'ruthless to the unbelievers but merciful to one another (48:29) and that the unbelievers are the 'worst of created beings' (98:6). One may exercise the Golden Rule in relation to a fellow Muslim, but according to the laws of Islam, the same courtesy is not to be extended to unbelievers. That is one principal reason why the primary source of slaves in the Islamic world has been non-Muslims, whether Jews, Christians, Hindus, or pagans. Most slaves were non-Muslims who had been captured in jihad warfare." (Spencer, Robert. Religion of Peace, p. 95.)

Eric Holder has "...outlined a three-part test for determining when a targeted killing against a U.S. citizen is legal. He said the government must determine after careful review that the citizen poses an imminent threat of violent attack against the U.S., capture is not feasible and the killing would be consistent with laws of war."

JT: Methinks that American Patriots have a right to hang Eric Holder for his acts of treason!

On March 5 DailyCaller.com reports that Obama's favorite labor union, "The politically aggressive Service Employees International Union (SEIU) has quietly created a national network of at least eight community-organizing groups, some of which function alongside the Occupy Wall Street movement... Incorporated by the SEIU as local non-profits, the groups are waging concerted local political campaigns to publicly attack conservative political figures, banks, energy companies and other corporations. Each local group has portrayed itself as an independent community organization not tied to any special interest. But they were founded, incorporated, and led by SEIU personnel. The individual activist groups use benign-sounding names including This Is Our DC; Good Jobs, Great Houston; Good Jobs, Better Baltimore; Good Jobs Now in Detroit; Fight for Philly; One Pittsburgh; Good Jobs LA; and Minnesotans for a Fair Economy. In reality, they are creations of the wealthy and influential labor union, amounting to a secret network of new SEIU front groups.”

JT: SEIU is nothing more than what Islam is in America: a state within a state.

Obama tells the AIPAC audience, “Four years ago, I stood before you and said that, ‘Israel’s security is sacrosanct. It is non-negotiable.’ That belief has guided my actions... The fact is, my administration’s commitment to Israel’s security has been unprecedented.”

“I have said that when it comes to preventing Iran from obtaining a nuclear weapon, I will take no options off the table, and I mean what I say.”

JT: The translation is: “Four years ago, I stood before you and lied. I didn't mean ‘Israel’s security is sacrosanct or that it is non-negotiable.’ I meant the opposite. I am standing before you today to make the same statement. That belief has guided my actions... The fact is, my administration’s commitment to Israel’s annihilation has been unprecedented.”

“I have said that when it comes to preventing Iran from obtaining a nuclear weapon, I will take no options off the table, before I am re-elected. After I'm re-elected in November I don't care how many nuclear weapons Iran has or if they attack Israel with them and I mean what I say.”
