

Frederick William Dame
(Exercising freedom of speech ... as long as it still exists.)

JUST THINKING

Number 90

SPECIAL ISSUE

On January 28, 2014 the putative President of the United States of America, Barack Hussein Obama, also known as Barry Soetoro, Harrison J. Bounel, and possible other aliases, appeared before the compliant, politically correct Congress of the United States of America to give them and the dumbed-down American people – at least those who watched the televised teleprompter ordeal – his 2014 State of the Union speech.

I have often commented on Barack Hussein Obama's speeches before and have shown with documented evidence that all of them were at least 75% full of content lies and somewhat between 50% and 75% of them were spotted with outright orthographic and grammar mistakes that not even a freshman student in a German university would make in English. (For those of you who do not see the significance of this statement you are hereby informed that English in Germany is a second language, in some regions even a third or fourth language.)

I had intended to make a sentence-by-sentence dissection and commentary of the State of the Union address as I had done with previous Barack Hussein Obama speeches. However, in listening to his rant it was easily discernible that all of his speeches have something else in common other than their containing content falsifications of historical fact and having grammatical and orthographic mistakes. Indeed, the components of Barack Hussein Obama's speeches are ever the same. My immediate conclusion was that instead of having the lovers of learning at this site read and view my written criticism of this speech, it would be better to place the results in the readers' / viewers' minds in a vivid manner. Therefore, I undertook an investigation into how Barack Hussein Obama's speech content could be represented in image form. Once I found the appropriate image it came clearly to my mind that the visual image of the speech content mirrors Barack Hussein Obama's politics, ethics, morals, and character. However, the United States is still a free country and thus the readers and viewers can make their own decision. As such I thank you for your attention. With candor here is my vivid representation of Barack Hussein Obama's sixth State of the Union address and all of the other blah, blah, blahs that come out of him:

<http://gswaterman.files.wordpress.com/2013/10/steaming-pile-of-shit.jpg>

Frederick William Dame
Patriotic, Steadfast, and True
January 30, 2014