With ISIS on the march and in control of half of Iraq and half of Syria, reporters ask the White House press secretary Josh Earnest if ISIS is succeeding in establishing a caliphate. His reply, "No I don't believe that at all."

JT: Of course they are not succeeding in establishing a caliphate. They have established one already!

Don Fredrick writes in the May 2015 report of The Complete Obama Timeline: "According to a May 8-11 YouGov poll, 51 percent of surveyed Democrats support making "hate speech" a crime. (That is, they oppose the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.) Remarkably, 37 percent of Republicans feel the same way, and 35 percent of independent voters."

JT: Methinks the 51%, 37%, and 35% respectively are conducting hate speech against the First Amendment to the Constitution for the United States of America.

JT: Dear reader! Were you once a wanted criminal? Here's how it all starts:

One time when I was like six I was in Walmart and I was eating a tube of Pringles and I ate them while my mom paid but I forgot to let the guy scan my Pringles so I walked to the door and an alarm went off and I just started running because I got scared and then my mom couldn't find me because I was hiding behind the newspaper things and the Walmart people called the police because I was missing and when I heard them show up I thought I was a criminal so I left my mom a note on the newspaper that said I went to Mexico to start a new life and not to come looking for me and then I took off running with my Pringles can and I ran for like an hour and then the cops saw me walking down the road so they pulled over so I started running again and then they were using the like car intercom thing and they told me to stop running so when I did I thought they were gonna put me in handcuffs and take me to jail so I was crying and I slapped the officer in the stomach and tried to run again but he just held me back and when he asked me what happened to me and I told him he started crying he was laughing so hard. And he just gave my mom two dollars for the Pringles and he was still laughing when he left. And that's the time I was a wanted criminal.

“ISIS is sending the ‘prettiest virgins’ they capture to slave markets in the Syrian city of Raqqa, where they are sold as sexual objects to the highest bidder, the United Nation’s Special Representative on Sexual Violence in Conflict has said. After the depraved militants attack their villages, they strip the girls naked, conduct virginity tests, evaluate their bodies and send them to twisted auctions, Zainab Bangura claims. She discovered the gruesome extent of Islamic State’s sexual crimes against young women—particularly from Iraq’s Yazidi minority community—after collecting information from Syria, Iraq, Turkey, Lebanon and Jordan.” For this information and supporting videos, go to <http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-3089430/Stripped-naked-physically-evaluated-sold-highest-bidder-ISIS-sending-prettiest-Yazidi-virgins-abducts-slave-markets-Syria.html>.

Senator James Inhofe (R-OK): "North Korea has just announced they have a miniaturized nuclear weapon. ISIS has already taken control of Ramadi. ISIS has 60 percent of Syria right now. They’re beheading Americans. We’re not responding. [Obama’s] timing could not have been worse to make a statement like that to a group like that, right after the declaration by everyone including James Clapper, the director of national intelligence and others that this is the most threatening time in the history of this country. ...At a time when our enemies don’t fear us, our allies don’t respect us, they know [Obama] has drawn the line in the sand many times as he’s done in Syria and other places and then backed away from it. These people at the [Coast Guard] academy know. They’re really tuned into the threat that is out there because they are trained to meet that threat.” (<http://www.wnd.com/2015/05/obama-is-getting-more-and-more-desperate/>)

JT: All Americans legal citizens, and illegal ones, of non-Muslim heritage and Muslim heritage should be so proud of Obama that he is truly keeping the United States of America safe from the evils in the world. ## Child Bride Gets Gruesome Revenge On 35-Year-Old Muslim Rapist Husband

Posted on May 23, 2015 by Dom the Conservative

While most little girls are going to school, playing with friends, or dreaming of the day they will meet their Prince Charming, fall in love, and plan a beautiful wedding, children under Islamic law are forced to endure things that no grown women should ever have to suffer.

Wasila Tasi'u was a young girl who hoped for the basic human rights that any child deserves — an education and right to choose the path of her own life. However, her parents had hoped to marry her off at the earliest opportunity possible.

In Nigeria, the legal age to marry is 14, which is supposed to protect children from marrying too young. Although, this hardly ever prevents Muslim families from forcing their daughters into arranged marriages with already married men more than twice their age, as was the case for little Wasila.

The Guardian reports that on her wedding night in 2014, 14-year-old Wasila was taken by 35-year-old Umar Sani to his bed where he tied the child to his bed and raped her until morning.

Fourteen-year-old Wasila Tasi'u was raped by her 35-year-old husband, abuse that prompted her to poison him.

This type of abuse went on for two weeks until young Wasila had finally had enough. When it was Wasila's turn out of all of Sani's wives to share his bed, she took rat poisoning and laced her husband's food.

Before he could enact his perverse sexual desires, Sani died an agonizingly painful death, and his child bride attempted to escape her Islamic prison.

The prosecution attempted to spin the case to express that Sani's child bride had made her own decision to marry the man, but ultimately regretted married life, deciding to later poison his food prepared for a post-marriage celebration, which ultimately killed 4 people in total, 9News reports.

Wasila was charged with murder, but her unique case spurred human rights activists across the globe to call for her release. Still, prosecutors had been seeking the death penalty for the abused teen who was a victim more than her pedophile husband.

With constant pressure from activists worldwide, the case of Wasila the murderous child bride was recently dropped by Nigerian court, freeing the young girl of all charges, according to the Daily Mail.

This case is yet another testament to the inability for Sharia law to coexist with any other law. Child marriage is not only condoned in Islam, it was made an example by the Islamic Prophet Muhammad when he married 6-year-old Aisha.

Sharia law not only strips the rights of women, it treats them as valuable property. Fathers are able to sell their daughters off to gain money, livestock, or even garner a greater reputation. Husbands are to act as tyrants over their wives, disciplining them should they refuse sex or appear arrogant.

Because of Muhammad's example, women under an Islamic state are sold, raped, and enslaved for the disgusting desires of their male owners, and yet it is ironically called the religion of peace.

Not only do women have no basic human rights, there is no Constitution to outline and protect the rights of any human being. Only Muslim men have opportunity under Sharia law. As illustrated by the Quran, "Men are in charge of women by what Allah has given over the other." The only thing women can hope for is that their husbands are kind enough to allow them the privilege of "guarding in their husband's absence what Allah would have them guard."

University asks alumni for donation money. One graduate sends back this amazing email...

Dear University Alumni Office,

I'm sorry to hear that the university's $750 million endowment has fallen in value to $500 million because of the recession and because your bank died. I'm also sorry to hear that you're dealing with declining enrollment due to the fact that middle-class families are no longer willing or able to bet their homes on a $45,000-a-year higher education for their children. I really am.

So, what I want to know is, why are you wasting money on glossy fundraising brochures full of meaningless synonyms for the word "Excellence"? And, why are you sending them to ME? Yes, I know that I got a master's degree at your fine institution, but that master's degree hasn't done jack shit for me since I got it! I have been unemployed for the past TWO YEARS and I am now a professional resume-submitter, sending out dozens of resumes a month to employers, and the degree I received in your hallowed halls is at the TOP OF IT and it doesn't do a f**king thing.

You know, maybe if you wanted a little bit of money from me (and these days you'd get about $3) maybe you should send me a fancy color brochure admitting your role in the bubble economics that got us all in to this mess.

For example, since 1987, higher education expenses have gone up 450 percent, while personal income in this country has gone up 87 percent, making tuition IMPOSSIBLE to afford without special financing. But, during this time, you were thriving because people could come up with the cash in two ways:

1. Get a home equity loan and use the inflated value of their house to pay for their kid to get drunk at your school and then lose the house when the market crashed.
2. Get a federal loan.

HAD IT OCCURRED TO YOU THAT NEITHER OF THESE SOURCES OF MONEY ACTUALLY EXIST? THAT IT WAS BEING MANUFACTURED BECAUSE YOU MADE PEOPLE THINK THAT ONE OF YOUR DEGREES WAS NECESSARY TO CLIMB TO THE TOP OF THE BUBBLE?

Oh yes, federal loans. I've got $40,000 of those, which are in "forbearance" right now because I'm unemployed, meaning that the feds are paying the interest for a while, which is convenient for me, but not for our government which is now owned by China. You know, the idea behind federal loans was that it would allow more students to attend your university, not let you INFLATE your tuition to obscene levels! I mean, what the f**k were you spending the $16,000 per semester on, anyway? I was in a public policy program, so that meant we got to sit in classrooms and listen to Professor God up at the front of the lecture hall glorify Himself and Creation as He saw it and talk about how much smarter he was than anyone else and how much he'd learned at MIT and the RAND Corporation.

Really, that's about all you did for us -- gave us a lecture hall, gave us an arrogant bastard to listen to, and gave us a room full of computers we could use sometimes, and you gave us a degree that employers look at and say "This guy knows how to write reports. Amusing." And I will be paying for this privilege until I am 51 years old.

So I'm sorry that the economy's been rough on you. Maybe, if you wanted to save a little money, you could stop printing and sending brochures to my parents' house (oh yeah, that's where I live because I can't afford rent on ANYTHING). And, maybe I'll donate a little bit of money to you in 2030, when I get the loans for your imaginary education PAID OFF!

Sincerely yours,
Alumnus

"...Saudi Arabia donated some 10 million dollars to the Clinton Foundation. A year later the House of Saud was rewarded with an astonishingly large arms deal of nearly $30 BILLION dollars. Boeing also played a role, donating almost a million dollars to the Clinton Foundation before then becoming the primary supplier of jet fighters included in the $30 billion Saudi arms deal. ...In 2010, Algeria was condemned by a Hillary Clinton State Department report for its human rights violations. Soon after, Algeria then donated a half million dollars to the Clinton Foundation. In 2011, just a year later, the Clinton State Department rewarded the Algerian government with an arms deal package that included, 'toxicological agents, including chemical agents, biological agents and associated equipment.' During her time as Secretary of State, Hillary Clinton oversaw a 300% INCREASE in military aid to Algeria—though it was an increase that did not begin until AFTER the Algerian government donated to the Clinton Foundation. The IBT report indicated General Electric was among the most "generous" of Clinton Foundation donors during Hillary's tenure there. This was at the same time that NBC (then owned by GE) gave Chelsea Clinton a quite lucrative 'contributor' contract with the network that reportedly paid her over $26,000 PER MINUTE of actual air time." “A Kenyan lawyer has offered ...Obama 50 cows and other assorted livestock in exchange for his 16-year old daughter Malia’s hand in marriage... Felix Kiprono said he was willing to pay 50 cows, 70 sheep and 30 goats in order to fulfil his dream of marrying the first daughter. ‘I got interested in her in 2008,’ Kiprono said, in an interview with The Nairobi newspaper. At that time ...Obama was running for office for the first time and Malia was a 10-year-old. ‘As a matter of fact, I haven’t dated anyone since and promise to be faithful to her. I have shared this with my family and they are willing to help me raise the bride price,’ he said. ...Kiprono said that as a couple he and the young Obama would lead ‘a simple life.’ ‘I will teach Malia how to milk a cow, cook ugali (maize porridge) and prepare mursik like any other Kalenjin woman,’ he said.” (<http://africanspotlight.com/2015/05/23/kenyan-lawyer-offers-obama-50-cows-70-sheep-30-goats-to-marry-his-daughter-malia/>)
