

Frederick William Dame
(Exercising freedom of speech ... as long as it still exists.)

Just Thinking

Number 131

JT: A spontaneous, hypothetical situation:

Headline News: Barack Hussein Obama Assassinated

POLDS (Progressives, Obots, Liberals, Dumbed-downers, Socialists/Communists) chanting: We want another Obama, We want another Obama ...

JT: Why would POLDS want two assassinated Obamas?

Source: <http://iotwreport.com/wp-content/uploads/2015/05/taliban-5-.jpg>

JT: Methinks they are named Sahdy, Anas, Saquer, Hatem, Souhair. (Well, they all have it!)

<http://www.breitbart.com/big-government/2015/05/26/jorge-ramos-admits-true-feelings-to-ann-coulter-no-limit-to-number-of-mexicans-allowed-into-america%E2%80%A8/>

JT: View and listen exactly and you'll become educated on the immigration problem.

<http://www.thenewamerican.com/reviews/opinion/item/20944-support-our-troops-get-us-out-of-the-united-nations>

JT: Now that's real patriotism!!!

<http://themetapicture.com/my-typical-weeknight/>

JT: Typical dog days!

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=b9LqYgJuMFg&feature=youtu.be>

JT She sings like Bernie Sanders' logic. Not comprehensible!!!

Source: <http://iotwreport.com/wp-content/uploads/2015/05/rapeculture.jpg>.

JT: Hypocrites!!! Both of them!!!

Source: DDees.com via <http://iotwreport.com/wp-content/uploads/2015/05/clinton-bush-2016.jpg>.

JT: Clinton Caption: What difference does it make at this time?
Bush Caption: Illegal immigrants come here because they desire love.
Last Words: Where's a Ronald Reagan?

Why I Vote Democrat by BFH • 05/29/2015 • 32 Comments

Author Unknown – Via Rightwinger

1. I vote Democrat because I believe it's okay if our federal government borrows $85 Billion every single month.
2. I vote Democrat because I care about the children ... but saddling them with trillions of dollars of debt to pay for my bloated leftist government is okay.
3. I vote Democrat because I believe it's better to pay billions of dollars to people who hate us rather than drill for our own oil, because it might upset some endangered beetle or gopher.
4. I vote Democrat because I believe it is okay if liberal activist judges rewrite the Constitution to suit some fringe kooks, who would otherwise never get their agenda past the voters.
5. I vote Democrat because I believe that corporate America should not be allowed to make profits for themselves or their shareholders. They need to break even and give the rest to the federal government for redistribution.
6. I vote Democrat because I'm not concerned about millions of babies being aborted, so long as we keep all of the murderers on death row alive.
7. I vote Democrat because I believe it's okay if my Nobel Peace Prize winning President uses drones to assassinate people, as long as we don't use torture.
8. I vote Democrat because I believe people, who can't accurately tell us if it will rain on Friday, can predict the polar ice caps will melt away in ten years if I don't start driving a Chevy Volt.
9. I vote Democrat because Freedom of Speech is not as important as preventing people from being offended.
10. I vote Democrat because I believe the oil companies' profit of 3% on a gallon of gas is obscene, but the federal government taxing that same gallon of gas at 15% isn't obscene.
11. I vote Democrat because I believe a moment of silent prayer at the beginning of the school day constitutes government indoctrination and an intrusion on parental authority but sex education, condom distribution and multiculturalism are all values-neutral.
12. I vote Democrat because I agonize over threats to the natural environment from CO2, acid rain and toxic waste but I am totally oblivious of the threats to our social environment from pornography, promiscuity and family dissolution.
13. I vote Democrat because I believe lazy, uneducated stoners should have just as big a say in running our country as entrepreneurs who risk everything and work 70 hours per week.
14. I vote Democrat because I don't like guns so no one else should be allowed to own one.
15. I vote Democrat because I see absolutely no correlation between welfare and the rise of illegitimacy.
16. I vote Democrat because I see absolutely no correlation between judicial leniency and surging crime rates.

17. I vote Democrat because I believe you don't need an ID to vote but you do to buy beer.
18. I vote Democrat because I believe marriage is obsolete, except for homosexuals.
19. I vote Democrat because I think AIDS is spread by insufficient funding.
20. I vote Democrat because I think "fairness" is far more important than freedom.
21. I vote Democrat because I think an "equal outcome" is far more important than equal opportunity.
22. I vote democrat because I would rather hide in a class room while others fight for my freedom.
23. I vote democrat because I'm not smart enough to own a gun and I need someone else to protect me.
24. I vote democrat because I would rather have free stuff than freedom.
I also vote Democrat because I am very uninformed, can't think for myself and do what lamestream media tells me too.
25. I vote Democrat because I have no memory of what the lying crooks repeatedly do and just ignore it.
26. And lastly, I vote Democrat because I'm convinced that government programs are the solution to the human condition, NOT freedom.

Source: Read more at <http://iotwreport.com/?p=287828#f2H5mkJgs053j3RS.99>

JT: We now know 26 reasons why people vote Democrat. Consider the opposite of these 26 reasons and you'll know why people vote Republican and are patriotic.

JT: Considering the above Why I Vote Democrat! The readers' comments are superb. Here they are:

- joe6pak 05/29/2015 at 8:16 pm

Yeah, there are all kinds of good reasons to vote democrat.....assholes!

jclady

05/29/2015 at 8:30 pm

frilliant!!!!

Txn4Evr

05/29/2015 at 8:33 pm

I vote Democrat cuz they be givin me free stuff and hassling the pigs when the catch me breakin the law.

Glenn

05/29/2015 at 8:40 pm

They missed one

I vote Democrat because I'm mentally ill.

Bad_Brad

05/29/2015 at 8:45 pm

And

I vote Democrat because they screwed up the Lobotomy

eternal cracker p

05/29/2015 at 8:49 pm

taxing that same gallon of gas at 15%

Oh, so when gas prices go down our government loses money?

Most people I know who vote democrat because they don't think either one of the political parties matter, but one of them gives a free ice cream cone every LINK payment.

geoff the aardvark

05/29/2015 at 8:50 pm

Question; Where's the comment section for the Bo Bergdahl post 2 posts down? Just asking?

Or are we to remain silent just like the military is on Bo Bergdahl's desertion and swap for 5 Taliban bad guys. And I wouldn't vote for a democrap if Hell were to freeze over.

Bad_Brad

05/29/2015 at 8:59 pm

I vote Democrat because common sense, logic, and deductive reasoning have no influence on my decisions, how I feel, and certainly not how I vote.

Billy Fuster

05/29/2015 at 8:59 pm

Brad -- I think your lobotomy was a success.

Bad_Brad

05/29/2015 at 9:07 pm

Billy, No man, they rotated it 90 degrees. Now I only hear half the conversation. It sucks.

LocoBlancoSaltine

05/29/2015 at 9:08 pm

I vote democrat because I am absolutely certain the Clintons care deeply about me and my well being.

Bwahhhhhahahahaha!

LocoBlancoSaltine

05/29/2015 at 9:11 pm

I vote democrat because they have always been the party for the black man's rights. Just ask Robert Byrd and all those who voted against their Civil Rights in 1964.

Wait...what?

LocoBlancoSaltine

05/29/2015 at 9:13 pm

I vote democrat because I was born white and somehow I must pay for things in this country's past I have no connection to whatsoever.

unruly refugee

05/29/2015 at 9:15 pm

Why hurt your brain trying to think when the government is willing to do your thinking for you? And sharia law is gonna be almost just like utopia.

Bad_Brad

05/29/2015 at 9:17 pm

You sure it's got nothing to do with Tequila? Tequila makes me do strange shit. And the Mexicans. Mexicans drink Tequila and they all vote Democrat. I think I might be onto something here.

bitterclinger

05/29/2015 at 9:22 pm

Tonight, Andy McCarthy mentioned how the U.S., via Mrs. Clinton, initiated a deal with the UN that prohibits maligning religion — and we know which religion is the only one they care about. If I heard correctly, NO ONE in the US senate had a problem with giving away our 1st Amendment rights.

I weep for my once-great country.

Bad_Brad

05/29/2015 at 9:31 pm

bitterclinger,

Well they better send some Blue Helmets to Phoenix stat. I hope they don't mind getting holes in their uniforms. Whether they like it or not the second protects the first.

Moe Tom

05/29/2015 at 9:44 pm

Bitterclinger @ I heard him on Mark Levin. Scary. Check out "Encounter broadsides" at <http://www.encounterbooks.com>. A series of very informative minibooks. I've already ordered No.7 and No. 42. I've read No 18 "How obama embraces islam's shaira agenda." Fuckin' scary.

Also the UN wants to control our 2nd Amendment . They are working on it.

LocoBlancoSaltine

05/29/2015 at 9:44 pm

Now come on Bad Brad, them's fightin' words!
Two of my favorite things hail from Mexico.
My chihuahua and my tequila!
Both come here legally!
(Though I have yet to see Roxy's papers...)

LocoBlancoSaltine

05/29/2015 at 9:47 pm

I vote democrat and specifically Hillary because:

- 1) She has a vagina
- 2) She will likely keep her crusty old vagina and not transgender
- 3) Bill won't bother inserting cigars in her vagina (Huma will)
- 4) Did I mention she has a vagina?

LocoBlancoSaltine

05/29/2015 at 9:50 pm

I vote democrat because looting is no longer a crime if you have a certain skin pigmentation

Just Sayin'

05/29/2015 at 9:57 pm

College level comment from Brad

I vote Democrat because common sense, logic, and "deductive reasoning" have no influence on my decisions, how I feel, and certainly not how I vote.

That really you Brad?

LocoBlancoSaltine

05/29/2015 at 10:07 pm

I vote democrat because they can fantasize about rape but those republicans can't have a binder with women's resumes.

Meerkat Brzezinski

05/29/2015 at 10:16 pm

I vote democrat because I am well educated with an advanced degree from a prestige university and the republicans are keeping me from finding a job. In other words, I vote progressive so that the democratic party can regain control and improve the economy enough to get me out of my ignorant tea-party lovin' parent's basement.

Bad_Brad

05/29/2015 at 10:17 pm

Just Sayen, Sometimes the fog clears momentarily. Don't worry it won't last long.

Bad_Brad

05/29/2015 at 10:19 pm

Loco, Jeez the only thing missing is Taco Bell.

99th Squad Leader

05/29/2015 at 10:19 pm

I vote Democrat because I think Obamacare is the best thing since sliced bread, even though I'm having trouble buying bread without an EBT card. That's OK, The government is paying for it. Right?

LocoBlancoSaltine

05/29/2015 at 10:43 pm

I vote democrat because I am a patriot... said NOBODY...EVER!

LocoBlancoSaltine

05/29/2015 at 10:52 pm

Yo quiero Taco Bell señor Brad!

Bad_Brad

05/29/2015 at 10:56 pm

Loco, pretty damn funny bro

Moe Tom

05/29/2015 at 11:26 pm

I vote democrat because we democrats appreciate the spotted owl, the snail darter, the carribu, (sp) and other insects, crawling things; gay marriage, homosexuals, sodomites, and other vermin, more than we appreciate oil, gas, work, automobiles, aeroplanes, ambulances, medicine, and other material things that we would be better off without. I long for the day when I can once again light a fire in the woods without a match, build a hut in Vermont and live happily ever after...For about 4 days.

Lazlo

05/30/2015 at 1:28 am

I vote Democrat because I have mush for brains, my critical thinking skills have been degraded, and I have traded the friendship of the cool and hip for common sense. Plus I are smart

Source: Read more at <http://iotwreport.com/?p=287828#f2H5mkJgs053j3RS.99>

Source: www.zazzle.com/FirstPrinciples

<http://www.frontpagemag.com/2015/matthew-vadum/hillary-the-arms-dealer/> reports: "While presidential candidate Hillary Clinton was America's top diplomat, the Department of State that she oversaw approved $165 billion worth of commercial arms sales to 20 nations whose governments forked over millions of dollars to the now-embattled Clinton Foundation."

JT: I know! It's old hat! But ...my comment is ... What difference does it make at this time?

Source: <http://iotwreport.com/wp-content/uploads/2015/05/mm.jpg>.

JT: These are what Americans will eventually turn into under continued DemocrAT non-leadership!

ISIS fighters attack and bomb and demolish a military prison in Palmyra, Syria. They take control of Syrian intelligence headquarters in the city. The American economy shrinks at a 0.7% annual rate. The American ZERO counters these developments by playing 27 holes of golf!

<http://www.bizpacreview.com/2015/05/31/mans-gotta-relax-what-obama-missed-while-he-played-another-round-of-golf-plus-nine-holes-more-209033>)

JT: This is virtually DemocrAT leadership by their biggest RAT!

The ATF (Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms) is ... looking to prohibit the mentally ill from owning firearms. (<http://thehill.com/regulation/243520-administration-preps-new-gun-regulations>)

JT: Methinks this means that no one in the Obama Regime will be able to own a firearm.

JT: It's Commencement Speech time! POLDS (Progressives, Obots, Liberals, Dumbed-downers (Socialists-Communists)! Open your ears and activate your grey cells, regardless of how few you have. Here's a fabulous Commencement Speech.

Life lessons from Justice Thomas

This is the season of formulaic left-wing commencement speeches. Contributing to the cause of true “diversity” — diversity in the life of the mind — Zev Chafets has edited a volume of heterodox commencement speeches under the title Remembering Who We Are: A Treasury of Conservative Commencement Addresses.

There are several speeches that I find inspirational and/or moving and/or thought-provoking in the book. One that is all of the above, and that I think is my favorite (if I had to choose one, which for this purpose I do), is Justice Clarence Thomas's, published under the title “Do Your Best To Be Your Best.” Through the courtesies of the publisher, we are posting the text of Justice Thomas's 2008 commencement speech at the University of Georgia below as edited for publication in the book. I'm not given to predictions, but in this case I want to make an exception. I predict you will enjoy this:

One of the sobering realizations that I came to while thinking about and preparing to be here today is that most of the graduates from the undergraduate program had not started the first grade when I went onto the Court. Life comes at you fast, and passes even faster.

In 1971, when I sat where you all are now sitting as graduates, I was just glad to be done with college. I was both scared and anxious about the rest of my life. My grandmother and mother were both there in the stadium bleachers to support me and to be there for my wedding the next day. Absent was the one person I wanted and needed there—my grandfather. Mired in a distracting mixture of fear, apprehension, and sadness, I wondered just what would happen next. How would I repay my student loans? Where would I live?

Somewhere through this fog of self-absorbed confusion, I barely noticed the graduation speaker. His name was Michael Harrington, the author of the then-popular book The Other America: Poverty in the United States, and himself a Holy Cross graduate. He seemed to be exhorting us on to solve the problems of poverty and injustice. As important as those are, I, like most people sitting there that day, was more focused on whether I would be able to solve my own problems, so that I would not become a problem for, or a burden to, others.

So having sat where you are sitting today, I have no illusion that I am at the center of your attention, nor do I think that what I have to say will be long remembered. But I do humbly request a few moments of your attention, recognizing that there is much going on in your lives. I promise that I will not clutter up your special day with my own ruminations about jurisprudence, although I do have an interest in discussing, at some point, my views on the Dormant Commerce Clause. [laughter] I take that as a lack of interest.

I will say in passing, however, that even today, after almost seventeen years on the Court, many of the lessons that I learned about life and academics still serve me well on the Court and in life. Believe me, what you have learned thus far really matters and matters greatly.

I will also not bore you with another litany of complaints or grievances, or exhortations to solve the problems that none of us of advanced years have been able to solve, or in some cases, even understand. It seems to be standard fare these days to charge young people to go out and do great things. Often what is meant is that they do something “out there” as opposed to their personal lives. Many years ago, when I read Dickens’s novel Bleak House, I was fascinated by Mrs. Jellyby’s obsession with her telescopic philanthropy—her great projects in Africa—while at the same time her task at hand went undone.

Realistically, the great battles for most of us involve conquering ourselves and discharging our duties at hand. These are the building blocks for the great things.

When I take stock of the nearly six decades of my life, the great people are mostly the people of my youth—my grandparents, my relatives, my neighbors, my teachers. One of the things they all had in common was the way they discharged their daily duties and their daily responsibilities—conscientiously and without complaint or grievance. I think of relatives like Cousin Hattie, who cleaned rooms at the Midway Hotel in Liberty County; her husband, Cousin Robert, who cut grass and farmed; and Miss Gertrude, who labored as a maid.

They went about their lives, doing their best with what they had, knowing all the while that this was not necessarily fair. They played the hand they were dealt. And, through it all, they were unfailingly good, kind, and decent people whose unrequited love for our great country and hope for our future were shining examples for us to emulate in our own struggles.

Whether in the merciless summer heat of Liberty County or the sudden downpours at the bus stop at Henry and East Broad streets in Savannah, they taught us how to live with personal dignity and respect for one another. To this day, the people who do their jobs, raise their families, and sacrifice so that we can gather here in peace are my heroes, from whom I draw great inspiration.

Quite a lot has happened in my lifetime, as I alluded to earlier. Monumental events involving constitutional and civil rights have made it possible for me to stand here today, when I could not sit there years ago as a college graduate. There are also the technological advances: from the scrub board to the automatic washing machine; the dishwasher (that is one of my personal favorites); the television; the computer; the iPod; and of course the now omnipresent cell phone.

My wife, who is my best friend in the world, often comments on the range of my life. I have been blessed to know and befriend the best and the least educated, the wealthiest and the poorest, the healthy and the physically challenged. I have seen a lot in my journey from the black soil of South Georgia to the white marble of the Supreme Court. It has been a longer journey than the miles from there to Washington could ever suggest. Along the way, I have learned many lessons. There is a saying that if you want to know what is down the road, ask the person who is coming back.

Today I am coming back down the dusty and difficult road of my life to meet at the commencement of your journey, the beginning of your journey, through the rest of your lives. I would just like to take a few more minutes of your precious time here at the side of this road between the hedges. I have just a few modest suggestions; I promise I will not hold you up very long.

First, show gratitude and appreciation. None of you, not one of you, made it here entirely on your own. There are people in your lives who gave you birth, who raised you and loved you, even when you were not so lovable. Thank the people who put up with your antics and loved you through it all. Thank the people who paid your tuition and your expenses. There are those who helped and counseled you through difficult times or when you made hard decisions. There are those who were compassionate enough to tell you what you needed to hear, not what you wanted to hear. Take some time today to thank them.

Don't put it off; some of us did.

I never took the time to properly thank my grandparents, the two people who saved my life and made it possible for me to stand here today. Deep down, I know they understand, as they always did and as parents always seem to find a way to understand. But it is still a burden that I will carry to my grave. Take some time to thank those who helped you.

A simple thank-you will do wonders. You may never know how much that expression of gratitude will mean. Twenty-five years ago, I went to visit my eighth-grade teacher, Sister Mary Virgilius, for the first time since high school. I thanked her for all she had done for me and for being compassionate enough to tell me about my deficiencies when I was in the eighth grade. I told her that I assumed that after more than forty years of teaching, I was among a long list of students who had come back to thank her. She said, "No, you're the first."

One additional word about her. On one of my recent visits to her at the retirement convent in New Jersey, she showed a friend and me her tiny room. It had a small bed, a bureau, and a chair. While telling us about her room, she listed the items to be given away after her death. She's almost ninety-five years old now. A rosary to her niece; a prayer book to the Franciscan sisters. There was a large photo of her and me on her bureau. Lovingly embracing it, she said, “This goes in my coffin with me.”

Take a few minutes today to say thank you to anyone who helped you get here. Then try to live your lives as if you really appreciate their help and the good it has done in your lives. Earn the right to have been helped by the way you live your lives.

Next, remember that life is not easy for any of us. It will probably not be fair, and it certainly is not all about you. The gray hair and wrinkles you see on older people have been earned the hard way, by living and dealing with the challenges of life. When I was a young adult and labored under the delusion of my own omniscience, I thought I knew more than I actually did. That is a function of youth.

With the wisdom that only comes with the passage of years, the older folks warned me presciently and ominously, “Son, you just live long enough and you’ll see.” They were right; oh, so right. Life is humbling and can be hard, very hard. It is a series of decisions, some harder than others, some good and, unfortunately, too many of them bad. It will be up to each of you to make as many good decisions as possible and to limit the bad ones, then to learn from all of them. But I will urge you to resist when those around you insist on making the bad decisions. Being accepted or popular with those doing wrong is an awful Faustian bargain and, as with all Faustian bargains, not worth it. It is never wrong to do the right thing. It may be hard, but never wrong.

Each of you is about to begin a new journey. Whatever that may be, do it well. If you are going to a new job or the military or to graduate school, do it to the best of your abilities. Each year at the Court I hire four new law clerks. They are the best of the best. The major difference between them and most of their classmates is self-discipline. By self-discipline, I mean doing what you are supposed to do and not doing what you aren’t supposed to do.

Though there are many enticements and distractions, it is up to each of you to take care of your respective business. Remember, the rewards of self-indulgence are not nearly as great as the rewards of self-discipline.

But even as you take care of business, there are a few other necessities for the journey. At the very top of the list are the three F’s—faith, family, and friends. When all else fails and we feel like prodigal sons and daughters, they will always be there, even if we don’t deserve them. Having needed them, I know they will always be your saving grace.

Trustworthiness and honesty are next. If you can’t be trusted with small matters, how can you be trusted with important ones? It may be hard to be honest, but it is never wrong. For my part, I can only work with honest people. I need to be able to trust them, and so will you.

Conscientiousness and timeliness are invaluable habits and character traits. As I tell my law clerks, I want my work done right and I want it on time. No matter what you do, do it right and do it on time. My brother used to say that he hurried up to be early so he could wait. Not a bad idea.

Stay positive. There will be many around you who are cynical and negative. These cause cancers of the spirit and they add nothing worthwhile. Don't inhale their secondhand cynicism and negativism. Some, even those with the most opportunities in this, the greatest country, will complain and grieve ceaselessly, ad infinitum and ad absurdum. It may be fair to ask them, as they complain about the lack of perfection in others and our imperfect institutions, just what they themselves are perfect at.

Look, many have been angry at me because I refuse to be angry, bitter, or full of grievances, and some will be angry at you for not becoming agents in their most recent cynical causes. Don't worry about it. No monuments are ever built to cynics. Associate with people who add to your lives, not subtract; people you are comfortable introducing to the best people in your lives—your parents, your family, your friends, your mentors, your ministers.

Always have good manners. This is a time-honored tradition and trait; it is not old-fashioned. Good manners will open doors that nothing else will. And given the choice between two competent persons, most of us will opt to hire the one with good manners. For example, no matter what older adults say about calling them by their first names, don't. Believe me, they remember, and not as kindly as you might think. I thank God my grandparents made me put a handle on grown folks' names and taught me to say "please" and "thank you."

Finally, the Golden Rule that is virtually universal—treat others the way you want to be treated. Indeed, when others hurt you, you may well be required to treat them far better than they treated you and far better than human nature would suggest they deserve. Be better than they are.

Help others as you wanted and needed to be helped. If you want to receive kindness, respect, and compassion, you must first give them. But to do that, you must first have them yourselves to give. Almost thirty years ago, a janitor in the U.S. Senate with whom I often spoke pulled me aside. I must have looked like the weight of the world was on my shoulders; at the very least, I must have looked despondent, not an uncommon look for a young man with common difficulties and hoping to make some difference in the lives of others. In sober, measured, and nearly toothless diction, he counseled me, "Son, you cannot give what you do not have." He was right, and merely echoed what I had heard throughout my youth in South Georgia.

My grandfather would look at the fields late in the summer and make the point that we could not give to others if we had not worked all summer to plant, till, and harvest. As a child, that meant little; as a man, I know he was right.

There are no guarantees in life, but even with all its uncertainties and challenges it is worth living the right way. As you commence the next chapter in your young lives, I urge you to do your best to be your best. Each of you is a precious building block for your families, your university, your communities, and our great country. It is truly up to each of you to decide exactly what kind of building blocks you will be.

Excerpted from Remembering Who We Are: A Treasury of Conservative Commencement Addresses, edited by Zev Chafets, in agreement with Sentinel, an imprint of Penguin Publishing Group, a division of Penguin Random House LLC. Copyright © Zev Chafets 2015 via iotwreport.com.

JT: I add: BE PROUD TO BE A PATRIOTIC AMERICAN!!!

<http://iotwreport.com/?p=288032>

JT: BigFurHat does it again! LOL! LOL! LOL! BigFurHat does it again!

JT: From the creative readers of iotwreport.com:

<http://iotwreport.com/?p=288041#comments>.

Source: <https://seeker401.files.wordpress.com/2015/05/cerzwd7xiaqb49p.jpg?w=497&h=302>

JT: Notice that Just Thinking is not on the list.

<http://www.returnofkings.com/62716/the-damaging-effects-of-jewish-intellectualism-and-activism-on-western-culture>

JT: Methinks that for every negative statement about Jews in this article, there are at least ten contradictory and positive statements about Jews in other articles.

<http://www.forbes.com/sites/jamestaylor/2015/05/19/updated-nasa-data-polar-ice-not-receding-after-all/>

JT: Al Gore has no comment!

JT: Here are some peaceful and tolerant accomplishments of Islam during the writing of Just Thinking 131. From <http://www.thereligionofpeace.com/>. They were all accomplished with the silent approval of Barack Hussein Obama.

Date	Country	City	Killed	Injured	Description
2015.05.31	Libya	Misrata	5	7	An Islamic State suicide car bomber takes the lives of five bystanders at a city entrance.
2015.05.31	Iraq	Baghdad	1	0	Video is released of a man being burned alive by the Shia militia group, Imam Ali.
2015.05.31	Afghanistan	Logar	3	4	A teacher and two students are killed when Muslim extremists fire a rocket into a government school.
2015.05.30	Nigeria	Maiduguri	26	28	Over two dozen worshippers at a mosque are disassembled by a Fedayeen suicide bomber.
2015.05.29	Libya	Benghazi	8	8	Eight people lose their lives to an Islamist rocket attack on their neighborhood.
2015.05.29	Nigeria	Tashan Alade	7	30	Seven people at a wedding are blown to bits by a Shahid suicide bomber.
2015.05.29	Saudi Arabia	Dammam	3	4	At least three others are killed by a suicide bomber outside a Shia mosque..
2015.05.28	Iraq	Baghdad	10	27	ISIS sets off a bomb outside a hotel, killing ten innocents.
2015.05.27	Pakistan	Quetta	2	1	Two Hazara religious minorities are gunned down outside their shop by Sunni radicals.
2015.05.26	Thailand	Pattani	2	0	A teacher is among two people riddled with bullets by militant Muslims.
2015.05.26	Kenya	Yumbis	25	0	Over two dozen police are murdered by al-Shabaab in a single attack.
2015.05.26	Afghanistan	Maidan Wardak	2	3	Two Taliban suicide bombers kill two guards.
2015.05.26	Iraq	Nimrud	1	0	An 80-Year-Old Christian woman is burned alive for failing to comply with Sharia restrictions.
2015.05.25	Afghanistan	Guzara	1	0	A tribal elder is ambushed and killed by the Taliban.
2015.05.25	Afghanistan	Zabul	5	73	Two women are among five killed in a massive suicide truck bombing that leaves over seventy others wounded.
2015.05.25	Afghanistan	Naw Zad	26	3	Over two-dozen defenders lose their lives to a brutal suicide assault by armed fundamentalists on a police compound.
2015.05.25	India	Kashmir	3	4	Lashkar-e-Islam fire on a patrol of soldiers, killing three.

2015.05.25	Pakistan	Quetta	1	0	A Shiite trader is shot to death on the street by Sunni extremists.
2015.05.25	Pakistan	Quetta	2	9	A female doctor is among two Hazara religious minorities murdered in an attack outside a medical center.
2015.05.25	Afghanistan	Shaheedan	3	0	Taliban in uniform murder three policemen.
2015.05.25	India	Shyamnagar	1	0	A 19-year-old is 'honor' strangled by her brother after marrying without her conservative family's permission.
2015.05.25	India	Sopore	1	2	Fundamentalists fire on a mobile shop, killing an employee.
2015.05.25	Afghanistan	Shah Wali Kot	6	0	All six people in a civilian vehicle are blown to bits by a Sunni bomb blast.
2015.05.25	Tunisia	Tunis	6	10	The Islamic State claims an attack at a barracks in which an alleged recruit shot six soldiers in the back.

Pamela Geller, WND Column: It's here, Shariah in America - See more at:

<http://pamelageller.com/#sthash.liTN3NJ7.dpuf>.

Muslim arrested for vandalizing, desecrating Mississauga Catholic church - See more at:

<http://pamelageller.com/#sthash.liTN3NJ7.dpuf>.

American "Mainstream" Muslims in America say it's right to kill me - See more at:

<http://pamelageller.com/#sthash.liTN3NJ7.dpuf>.

ISIS Puts Captured Roman Amphitheatre Back Into Use as Venue for Execution as Entertainment - See more at: <http://pamelageller.com/#sthash.liTN3NJ7.dpuf>.

Minnesota Muslims declare: 'We want Shariah'

<http://pamelageller.com/2015/05/67097.html/>.

The New York Times Runs Mother Mary Covered in Excrement, Won't Run Muhammad Drawing - See more at: <http://pamelageller.com/#sthash.liTN3NJ7.dpuf>.

Sharia-Compliant Media's War on Free Speech Rallies - See more at:

<http://pamelageller.com/#sthash.liTN3NJ7.dpuf>.

ISIS Jihadis and Muslim Supporters Blame AFDI Art and Cartoon Contest for Texas Flooding - See more at: <http://pamelageller.com/page/2/#sthash.41EwIFjm.dpuf>.

Fire Jihad: Muslim Convert Arrested for arson in huge LA fire - See more at:

<http://pamelageller.com/page/2/#sthash.41EwIFjm.dpuf>.

ISIS Makes a Fortune From Smuggling Migrants, Says Report - See more at:

<http://pamelageller.com/page/3/#sthash.OlkkRkZp.dpuf>.

Muslim Scholars: Israel Is 'Root Cause' of All Islamic Nations' Failures - See more at:

<http://pamelageller.com/page/3/#sthash.OlkkRkZp.dpuf>.

Source: <https://twitter.com/mathewsiw>.

Frederick William Dame
Patriotic, Steadfast, and True
June 2, 2015.